

Top 5 Best Cat Toothpastes in 2019

October 18, 2018 / By Kate Davis

That's right, even your sweet kitty needs to have his teeth cleaned.

While you may be wondering how you're going to fit your toothbrush into his mouth and if cats even like to be minty fresh, brushing your cat's teeth isn't the same as brushing yours.

First of all, it requires some specialized equipment, patience, and persistence.

The most important piece is the toothpaste.

Quick look: Top 5 Best Cat Toothpastes in 2019

Product name	Quality
CET Enzymatic Toothpaste	A
Nylabone Advanced Oral Care	A
Sentry Petrodex Dental Kit	A
Oratene Veterinarian Antiseptic Oral Gel	A+
Enzadent Pet Toothpaste	A+

Later on, we'll discuss the best cat toothpastes, but first let's talk about how to use them.

So what's the big need for brushing a cat's teeth?

It's not like wild tigers are brushing after every meal.

If your kitty is willing, lift up her lip sometime and see if she has any dental issues looming.

Quick Navigation

CET Enzymatic Toothpaste

Oratene Veterinarian Antiseptic Oral Gel

Nylabone Advanced Oral Care

Enzadent Pet Toothpaste

Sentry Petrodex Dental Kit

Yellowish-brown buildup along the gum line is unwanted tartar caused from daily plaque being allowed to adhere to the teeth.

Too much tartar can actually lead to tooth decay and loss.

Gingivitis, or inflammation of the gums, is another complication of neglected dental care.

Both conditions can be painful and cause a decrease in appetite.

The huge concentration of bacteria in an unclean mouth can also make your kitty very sick.

So in short, it's best to brush your cat's teeth to maintain a healthy, long life.

The best cat toothpastes really look nothing like your toothpaste.

They're not all blue and minty and they don't use fluoride as it can be toxic to cats.

Rather, some are flavored like something a cat would love, chicken or beef, and they use enzymes or other ingredients to break down and prevent tartar buildup.

So let's take a look at the five best cat toothpastes.

CET Enzymatic Toothpaste

has a dual action enzyme formulation that works for both dogs and cats.

The enzymes work to inhibit plaque from forming and do so without having to be rinsed.

This is great news because brushing your kitty's teeth might be hard enough without having to get her to rinse and spit.

CHECK ON AMAZON

CET toothpaste also comes in four flavors: beef, poultry, vanilla mint, and malt.

Vanilla mint and malt are animal product free so they won't interfere with any food allergies or sensitivities.

When it comes to cat toothpaste, you need one that is effective and that your cat will love.

Not every kitty is going to be willing to let you mess around in his mouth with a toothbrush, so it's important to have a toothpaste that they think of as a treat.

CET Enzymatic Toothpaste is both of those things.

With different flavors to choose from, you should be able to find one that your cat will enjoy.

It is also effective at preventing plaque buildup, freshening breath, and preventing dental disease.

Some pet parents just couldn't get their kitty to cooperate with the tooth brushing.

CET Enzymatic Toothpaste may be just what your kitty needs to have a healthy smile, fresh breath, and a long, toothy life.

This product works well at cleaning teeth and most kitties seem to like the flavor and will tolerate tooth brushing just so they can have it like a treat.

When starting your kitty on a tooth brushing program, it may work best to let your kitty taste the toothpaste before trying to actually brush.

Since this toothpaste is made to be swallowed, it can seem more like a treat.

Nylabone Advanced Oral Care
